

THE ASPEN TIMES

SINCE 1881

.COM

Fashion Week

The chic factor was turned up a notch last week for the third installation of Aspen Fashion Week. Event CEO and founder Lisa Johnson assembled a star cast of designers, whose 2011-12 looks graced the runway including collections from Neve Designs, Authier, Dannemann Pure, NUMBER:Lab, JCC/Rossignol, Obermeyer, KJUS and Hallie Sara. A sleek new snowstage at the Silver Circle Ice Rink provided the setting to showcase winter fashions with 360-degree views of Aspen as the backdrop. Fashionable events kicked off with Casa Tua's opening night soiree and continued with in-store events at WESC, Theory, Ariane Zurcher Designs & Aspen Jewel Box and more to a poolside closing party at The Sky.

MOUNTAIN MAYHEM

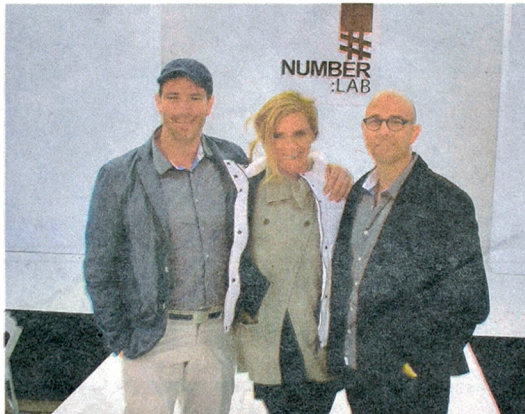

MAY SELBY

The FEED Foundation served as Aspen Fashion Week's charitable partner for the second year in a row. CEO and co-founder Lauren Bush represented the nonprofit's mission of providing healthy food options for children worldwide through the sale of FEED bags in a range of fabrics and through its relationship with the United Nations' World Food Program, UNICEF and others.

To send info, insight or invites, email allthewaymay-may@hotmail.com.

Steven Dubb, Dylan Tabis, Brad Dubin, Lindsey Dollahon and Michael Brown.

NUMBER:Lab's Greg Johnson and Luis Fernandez flank AFW CEO/founder Lisa Johnson.

Looks from Dannemann Pure.

Nick Tininenko